B. Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Dear Reader,

Becoming an astronaut is an exciting adventure I will never Forget! But before I could travel to space, I had to go through a lot of training. The first step of my journey was learning everything about the shuttle I would be flying in. I studied how the rocket works and what to do in different situations.

The training wasn't just about studying. I had to keep fit by exercising regularly to stay strong and healthy. I spent time inside a special training camp that is similar to the space environment, where I practised moving in a special building that has no gravity, just like space. This helped me learn how to float and move around!

Another important part of my training was learning what to do in difficult times. I practised what to do if something went wrong, like a fire or a problem with the equipment. We also learned how to work as a team because communication is just as important in space as any other skill. Before that, I had to get used to wearing my spacesuit. It protects me and provides oxygen while I'm in space.

Finally, after all the training, the big day arrived! I felt excited and ready to explore the space and learn about it. My experience was amazing, but I know that all the preparation I went through made the journey safe and successful.

Greetings from space!

Astronaut John Mitchell
